Marks - 05

Saman lived in a big city, and his hair was always cut by the same hairdresser. Saman went to him once a month. He was allowed one hour for his lunch everyday. So he had his lunch at the office and went to cut his hair. The hairdresser had a very small shop near Saman's office and he worked alone, but he always cut Saman's hair exactly as Saman liked it and while he was doing, the two men discussed about football and cricket.

But the hairdresser was an old man, and one day, when Saman was sitting in his chair, and his hair was being cut as usual, the old man said to him, "Mr. Saman, I'm going to retire. I'm going to sell my shop to a new hairdresser. The shop's being paid for by the young hair dresser's father. Saman was very sad to hear this because he enjoyed talking to the old man and he was also worried that his hair would be cut as well by the new man as it had been for so many years by his old friend.

He went to the shop again the following month after young man had begun cutting people's hair. He was there and he cut his hair but he did it very badly. The next month, Saman went into the shop again. The young man asked how he would like his hair cut, and Saman answered. "Please cut it very short on the right side but leave it as it is on the left. It must cover my ear. Cut all the hair in the middle. but leave a piece at the front which can hang down to my chin"

The young hairdresser was surprised when he heard this. "But Sir" he said. "I can't cut your hair like that" "Why not?" Saman said, "That was how you cut it last time"
